The San Francisco Bulletin publishes the annexed brevity among its summarized telegrams:

The impression at Virginia City is that ex-Minister R. M. Daggett is the best editorial counsel of the Territory in the interest of W. M. Stewart in the coming Senatorial fight in Nevada.

There is not a thing in the impression most have been given to those whose wish was father to the thought Daggett is himself an excellent and capable candidate for the Senate, and does not hesitate to assert that a man should come from California, and especially one who has not contributed to the welfare of Nevada for fifteen years, and command the Senatorial preference to men who have labored for the State.

Senator Fair, in advocating the reopening of the Carson Mint, remarks that "Nevada produces more silver than any other State." We hope that the mint will be re-opened, but as the figures of silver production are easily accessible to Senators, as well as other people, some care should be taken to avoid inaccurate statements, that will do more harm than good. In 1884, the last year for which the statistics are available, Nevada produced $5,600,000 worth of silver, and Colorado $16,000,000. If we go beyond the list of States, we find two Territories ahead of Nevada—Montana, with $7,000,000, and Utah, with $6,800,000.—S. F. Post.

The telegraph probably misrepresents the Senator. He evidently said the State had produced more silver than any other State.

The decrees of the Baltimore Plenary Council after praising temperance and total abstinence, say, in regard to the liquor traffic: "We warn our faithful people who sell intoxicating liquors to consider by how many serious dangers their business, although not unlawful in itself, is surrounded. If they can, let them choose a more honorable way of making a living; but, if they cannot, let them not sell drink to the young, nor to those who they foresee will abuse drink. Let them keep their saloons closed on Sunday, and at no time let them allow blasphemy, within the walls of their taverns."

It has been proposed to enlarge the White House at a cost of $300,000. The old Presidential mansion has done its full service, and should have been retired long ago. It would be the height of folly to add to, or in any way reconstruct the present edifice, except by tearing it down. The White House is at present the poorest public building in Washington, and is in no way creditable to the great nation whose Chief Executive resides in it.

The officers having in charge the coming Grand Army encampment are busy sending circulars to different Posts throughout the United States. The circulars are distributed in order that the General Committee may shortly be able to form an estimate of the number of visitors that are to be expected. The Secretary announces that the correspondence had so far led to the belief that the number will not fall far short of 35,000.

The Pacific Mail Steamship Company is selling tickets from San Francisco to New York for $40. As a passenger gets about four weeks' board and transportation as one the Isthmus of Panama, it is about as cheap as staying at home. It is a better arrangement for the travelers than for the Pacific Mail stockholders.

Arrangements for decorating General Grant's tomb on next Decoration Day are already under way in Brooklyn. It is the intention to have Grant Army Posts, outside of New York City and Brooklyn, that are named after the veteran, take part in the ceremonies.

It is reported that prominent Democrats of Arizona are moving to have Owen T. Howe, the recently appointed United States Attorney for Arizona, removed on the ground of incompetency.

Mr. Dolph addressed the Senate Wednesday in support of the bill for the admission of Washington Territory. He claimed that from every point of view the Territory was entitled to admission. Alluding to the recent anti-Chinese occurrences, Mr. Dolph said the work was not that of citizens of Washington Territory, but of foreigners. The outrages he characterized as inexcusable. He would not defend violence, but there were some mitigating circumstances in this case. The people of the whole Pacific Coast were almost unanimous as to the policy of excluding the Chinese, but the proximity of Washington Territory to British Columbia gave the opportunity for many Chinese, on the completion of the Canadian Pacific Railway, to get into Washington Territory, and so violate the laws of the United States. Although national troops had been called for, the people of Washington Territory had arranged matters before the troops arrived. The anti-Chinese incident should not prejudice the case of the Territory. Occurrences just as reprehensible had occurred in most of the States before their admission, and some since. After executive session the Senate adjourned.

April Inaugurations.

The proposition advanced by Senator Ingalls, of Kansas, to amend existing law so that the President may be inaugurated in April rather than in March, and follow the precedent established when George Washington was inaugurated on April 30, 1789, has been antagonized in various directions, but the Washington correspondent of the San Francisco Alta writes that the opinion is freely expressed in public circles at Washington that such change would prove beneficial in many desirable ways. It would, in the first place, operate to extend the second, or short session of Congress, which now lasts only from the first Monday in December to March 3d following, thus giving more than a month's additional time for completing legislation without additional expense worth mentioning. When the two weeks of Christmas holidays are deducted, this session is now practically limited to ten weeks, which forbids much legislation beyond passing appropriation bills. Again, the inauguration of a President would occur in the milder month of April, and enable strangers to visit the Capital, and make the occasion far more acceptable than during the inclement days of March.

Attracting Attention to the West.

The Chicago Inter-Ocean says: The public is gradually beginning to believe that the railroad lines doing business between the Missouri river and California are parties to a monster scheme for advertising and booming the land of plenty in the West. The present rates are so low that the railroads lose heavily on every train they run, but the opinion prevails that a general movement has been organized and is being admirably managed for the opening up of better business facilities with California, for the increase of traffic and the inspection of the State and its products by Eastern capitalists and sight-seers. California fruit and wine and other products which have found their way to Eastern markets are coming in very plentifully and at a low cost, and the fact that California fruit-growers are holding fairs in Eastern cities, is also a noteworthy one. Rates are so low that people who never before could secure a passage from here to San Francisco can now go there and back for almost nothing.

Geronimo was disgusted because there was not even $500 reward offered for his capture.

Logan wants a larger army. And this, too, before we have a navy?

The Gazette has entered upon its 21st volume and eleventh year.

Powderly is being urged for Governor of Pennsylvania.

The Carson Index, of Wednesday, says:

The Reno JOURNAL entered a new volume and the tenth year of its existence to-day. The JOURNAL is richly entitled to its longevity and a continued prosperity.

When the Civil War broke out in 1861, Lincoln, Hamlin and Andrew Johnson were each 52 years old; Fremont and Douglas were each 48; Seward was 60; Chase 53, Cameron 62, Stanton 46, Greeley and Sumner each 50, Wilson 49, Fessenden 55, Trumbull 48, Wade 61, "Thad." Stevens 69, Banks 45, Hendricks 42, Curtin 44, John Sherman, Morton and Colfax each 38, Grant 39, Tecumseh Sherman 41, McClellan 34, Hancock 37, Sheridan 30, Seymour 51, Tilden 47, Hayes 38, Garfield 29, Logan 35, Lamar 36. Here are thirty-three men, then prominent in politics, or destined to prominence in the field, of whom a full third had completed their fiftieth year, and but three were under 35, while the average age of all was nearly 46.

On the other hand, when the Revolution broke out in 1775, Washington was 43; John Adams, then a delegate in the Continental Congress, 40, and his colleague, Thomas Jefferson, only 32; Madison, just entering on public life in Virginia, but 24; Monroe, a boy of 17, contemplating joining the patriot army the next year, and eight years later a member of the Continental Congress at 25; Hamilton, a college-student of 18 in this city, ready to be Washington's aid-de-camp at 20, and a member of the Continental Congress at 25; Rufus King, afterward United States Senator from New York as late as 1825, a Harvard student of 20, preparing himself to be an officer in the army at 23 and a member of the Continental Congress at 29; C. Pickney, afterward Congressman so late as 1821, a boy of 17, who was to be one of South Carolina's representatives in the Continental Congress at 19; William Jackson, afterward Secretary of the Constitutional Convention of 1787, a Lieutenant in the army at 23; while in the Continental Congress at such already prominent men as John Jay, not yet 30; Robert R. Livingston, 28; Frederick Frelinghuysen, but 22, among colleagues, nearly half of whom were men under 40. Without further multiplying illustrations, it is evident that the chief reason why men who were prominent in the Revolution continued prominent so long afterward that the last President of that school did not retire until 1825, was because they were as a rule so very young when they assumed public duties; while the chief reason that the politicians and soldiers of the Rebellion period are dying so much sooner after the close of the struggle is because they were very much older men than their prototypes of the last century when the struggle opened.

Pacific Railroads.

The Washington correspondent of the New York World writes three and a half columns under the head of "Pacific Railroads Plundering," in which he says that the Pacific Railroads now owe the Government $105,000,000 in round numbers, and have from first to last done everything in their power to cheat the Government. He adds: "The only remedy for the Government is to move at once for a receivership of these roads. The Interior Department has had before it for nearly a year the question of this great indebtedness—$105,000,000—but as yet it has evolved no plan of practical procedure. It has been urged upon the President that he should send a special message to Congress upon the subject, asking that a receiver be appointed to secure the millions due. The President is considering the subject, and it is believed that he will send a special message to Congress upon the subject and that he will take strong grounds against the plan of extending the time of paying the debt due the Government."

Admission of New States.

S. F. Call.

There are eight Territories within the boundaries of the United States, to wit: Arizona, Dakota, Idaho, Montana, New Mexico, Utah, Washington and Wyoming, all of which at some future time, will come into the Union as States. Which of the number will gain precedence of admission is now the question. The claims of Dakota and Washington are being the most persistently urged, and though the Republicans are desirous of getting them in both in before the close of the present session of Congress, the outlook for the accomplishment of their purpose is by no means flattering. No one disputes that Dakota has a population sufficiently large to entitle her to the honors of statehood, but there are political reasons, well known to the public, for keeping her out. In view of this knowledge, it seems like a waste of time to discuss the matter in Congress, as is being done, with little progress made towards the desired end. When some other one of the Territories besides Dakota and Washington proves by its Democratic vote that it would be able to return two Democrats to the United States Senate, a compromise may be effected by which the thirty-eight States will become forty, but hardly before.

The Aurora Star remarks:

The Carson Tribune "don't hear a word spoken concerning the Senatorial question, nor in fact is there anything published on the subject; and such is best, for guesswork is a poor business." The time was when Nevada was represented by ability in the United States Senate; it afterwards followed that the rights and representation of an entire commonwealth was put up under the red flag and by the auctioneer knocked down to the man who happened to have the most loose coin in his vast pocket, and who had a hankering for the bauble. Nevada is known in the East as the Botten Borough. The State has justly earned the offensive title, and the people wear it with becoming complacency and meek and lowly submission. Their rights are supposed to be guarded by a free press; and yet the Tribune thinks "twere better not 'a word should be spoken concerning the Senatorial question." Were we to publicly proclaim that the Tribune don't care a whistle for the welfare of the people who support it, the Deacon would hold up his hands in holy horror, and go into his church and pray for us as a sinner whose heels were lost beyond redemption. Taken as a whole to-day Nevada is represented by an able press. Concentrated action on the part of the newspapers would cause the voters to reflect and result in sending a man to the United States Senate who would in reality, reflect the sentiments of our people and command the respect of the balance of the Senate. When turned to good the press is a power. We see that the "Hon. R. M. Daggett has arrived at Sacramento from the East, and may soon be expected to arrive in Nevada." Perhaps when Mr. Daggett arrives he can tell the Tribune just what to say on the Senatorial question.

PERMANENT SETTLERS.

The Silver State says:

The approaching election and the opportunity it is expected to afford professional politicians to represent (?) Nevada in Congress is bringing many "permanent settlers" to the western part of the State. The Reno and Carson papers have been saying for some time that Hon. W. M. Stewart has built a residence in Carson, and will become a "permanent resident" of the State, and now they convey the cheering information that Hon. R. M. Daggett returned a few days ago for the purpose of becoming a "permanent resident" of Nevada. These, we are told, are both candidates for the United States Senatorship, which accounts for their return to Nevada at this time to become "permanent residents" until after the election. As there is one month more left for politicians to come to Nevada in time to acquire the right to vote at the next election, there may be an influx of "permanent residents" with political aspirations from California and elsewhere before the close of April, but as all those six months "permanent residents" can not get offices the influx of "permanent residents" next November will be as great as the influx is now. As Permanent Resident Stewart and Permanent Resident Daggett can not both go to the Senate, probably a compromise may be effected, by which one of them may condescend to represent the State in the Lower House of Congress.

Handy Things to Know and Keep.

Here are some figures and rules very handy to know and have at hand, in the mind or on paper:

A correspondent of a Philadelphia paper writes as follows of Senator Edmunds:

The most interesting figure in the Senate is Edmunds, of Vermont. With Beck, of Kentucky, who would be a statesman if it were not for his financial heresies, Edmunds enjoys the distinction of being the ablest party leader on the floor. His hair and beard are perfectly white, and the bald spot on the crown is beginning to reach out with a rather merciless intention. Twice in danger of becoming the Republican candidate for President, it is not certain that he will be nominated yet, as it is confessed here now by everybody but William Walter Phelps that Blaine was the weakest man that could have been chosen in 1884. Certain it is that the Mugwumps would have supported Edmunds, and the Mugwumps, as everybody knows, turned the tide in New York and elected Grover Cleveland President. His attitude now is a little ridiculous and the opposition he is leading—when Sherman doesn't steal his thunder—isn't helping him among the Independents. They say he realizes, however, that while Mugwumps can elect a President they cannot nominate one, and that on this account he is giving his partisanship full play and trying to get into line. Nor is there anything strange in that. The desire to become President is the highest ambition of the American statesman, and the almost dying utterances of Clay, Webster and Scott show how eager even great men can be for this crowning honor. It remains to be seen, however, whether Edmunds' ambition will ever be realized and whether the tactics he employs to gain his object will not inevitably place his coveted treasure wholly beyond his reach. Clay found that the case and so did Webster. Mr. Edmunds is no greater than these statesmen were.

TOWN AND COUNTY.

REVIEWS.

Rained a little here yesterday.
Bank Commissioner Cassidy is in Washington.

Little Harry Sunderland was buried yesterday afternoon.

March went out like a lion, even if it did not come in like one.

The Anti-Chinese bill has been postponed until Friday evening.

The funeral of L. W. Lee will take place this afternoon from the residence at 2 o'clock.

John Wilson, who was kicked by a horse Wednesday, was not as badly injured as at first feared.

The Eastern-bound train yesterday morning was three hours late, on account of the heavy storm on the mountains the night before.

The Carson Tribune, of Wednesday, says:

The Reno Journal enters upon a new volume and thirtieth year of its existence to-day. The Tribune wishes its contemporary unbounded future success.

Colonel Bill Mooney, of Virginia, who has almost had to pass in his checks during the last few weeks, is again on his feet, having concluded to run the game of life a few years longer, and will soon be able to appear on the street and attend to his business as usual.

There is talk of the Carson and Colorado Railroad Company laying a third rail from the Mound House to Mason Valley, so that cattle men can ship cattle direct from California and elsewhere to the valley for wintering. This would do away with the transfer at the Mound House.

Senator Sherman has been chosen to succeed the late Senator Miller, of California, as Chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations, and he has requested Mr. Vance, who was Mr. Miller's private secretary and clerk of the committee, to retain the same position he occupied under the old Chairman.

TO SAN FRANCISCO VIA OMAHA.—People who have time to spare and want to see the country, are now going to San Francisco by way of Omaha, and save money by doing so. First class tickets to Omaha are sold for $30, and the purchaser receives a rebate order, payable at Omaha, for $25. At Omaha he purchases a first-class ticket to San Francisco for $30, and receives a rebate order for $25, payable in San Francisco, making the cost of his ticket to San Francisco by way of Omaha $10, or $2 05 less than by the direct route. Last Monday a lady who wanted to go to San Francisco purchased a ticket to Omaha, where she has relatives she desires to see, and unless the rates are raised meanwhile, she will save money by going that way to San Francisco.

COMING HOME.—Two friends of Mr. E. J. Parkinson, of Carson, will be pleased to know that he will soon be able to return home. He has been under treatment at the Arkansas Hot Springs for four months, for paralysis and writes that the disease has entirely left his body, nothing but the lower part of his left leg being now affected, and his physician assures him that he will entirely recover his strength within a few months. Before returning E. J. P. will make a visit to some of the principal cities of the States.

NOT KNOCKED OUT.—Captain Harry Tirwhell, who was almost busted out of existence a few days ago by an unexpected explosion of a blast in the Hale and Norcross croppings, is rapidly recovering, and will soon be on deck again. Dr. Conn thinks he will not even lose the eye, which was at first thought to be knocked out. Captain Harry was evidently too tough and wiry to be finally disposed of until after the coming election, and it is to be hoped several more to come.

FOR SALE.—A fine lot of assorted plums are offered for sale at a bargain. All mixed in Reno and most all in full bloom. Inquire at this office.

The rates given above for Missouri river points and (via El Paso) for St. Louis, Memphis and New Orleans will apply to intermediate (main line) points, but without rebate, except that to Denver, Colorado Springs and Pueblo, Missouri rates will be charged.

MAGNANIMOUS.—The Enterprise says: "Our Committee Ranger mine who went down to Reno and vanquished the Dudes last Sunday, could have beaten them by a much larger score if it had not been for their gentlemanly magnanimity, which they desired to show in the presence of the large assemblage present, including twenty-seven ladies, young and old, who occupied reserved seats on a rail fence. It was a very lively and enjoyable circus, and the ringmaster and clown were both from Virginia. Our boys had a good time, and most cordially acknowledge the fraternal courtesies and kind treatment extended to them by the Reno boys, hoping to have a chance to reciprocate some time."

TO THE LADIES OF RENO.—BUSINESS CHANGE.—Miss Sadie Sykes tenders her best thanks to the ladies of Reno and vicinity for the patronage and support they have given her for the past three years, and desires to inform them that she has this day disposed of her business to Mrs. Hessel, to whom she solicits a continuance of their kind patronage and support.

Referring to the above Mrs. Hessel respectfully solicits a continuance of the patronage so liberally accorded to her predecessor, and assures the ladies of Reno and vicinity that her untiring efforts will be put forth to keep the business up to its former high standard. Her knowledge of the business, combined with the services of a first-class assistant, will insure perfect satisfaction at all times.

THE MCCONKEY HONOR CASE.

White Pine County Loses in the Supreme Court.
During the years 1881 and 1882, Geo. P. McConkey was County Treasurer of White Pine county. Sadler, Herrick, Strickland, Molitor, Ellison, McDermid, and others, prominent citizens of the county were his sureties. On the morning of the 2d of January, 1883, McConkey was found dead in his office. To some, circumstances indicated suicide, while others believed he had been murdered and robbed. An examination of his books disclosed a shortage of nearly twelve thousand dollars. The county employed H. K. Mitchell, Esq., to assist the District Attorney, and suit was instituted against the bondsmen in March, 1883. Messrs. Baker & Wines were employed by the defense. The case went to the Supreme Court on a question of pleading and was reversed in 1884, and sent back for a second trial. The case was again before Judge Rives in July, 1885. The defense introduced no evidence and the Court ordered judgment for the defendants for the reason that the evidence of plaintiff failed to show that the plaintiff was entitled to any judgment. The county again appealed to the Supreme Court where the case was argued last month, and on Saturday last the opinion of the Court was filed affirming the order of Judge Rives. This puts an end to the case and the bondsmen are relieved from the payment of about sixteen thousand dollars. Upon the whole they may consider themselves quite lucky.

A LAXY CONGRESS.

The Washington correspondent of the San Francisco Alta writes the annexed: Like the wounded snake, Congress drags its slow length along, making but little progress into the vast mass of pending legislation, and although strenuous effort will be put forth to secure an adjournment early in June, it does not now look possible to secure that consummation so devoutly wished by the legion of Representatives desirous to obtain re-nomination and re-election and go out, and panoply, upon the early Fall hustlings. Very many Democratic members are impressed with the paramount necessity for speedy adjournment sitting as precedent the case of the first session of the Forty-seventh Congress, a Republican body, of which the redoubtable Kiefer was Speaker, where the session, being prolonged into the first week of August, caused great discontent throughout the country and resulted in a sweeping Democratic victory of the election for the Forty eighth Congress in November following.

These Democratic members insist that the Republican majority was held responsible and rebuked by the people for having unwarrantably extended the session, it having been shown in the public press that the first few months of that session were wasted in dilatory and unnecessary debate on the tariff and other questions, which placed the regular appropriation bills far in arrears. Therefore, should the present Democratic Congress fall into the same error, it would doubtless be held to similar responsibility and be re-elected in like manner at the ensuing election for membership of the Fiftyth Congress. They argue that the people grow very weary of protracted sessions, when but but little in the beneficial legislation is accomplished, and that the proper way is to press through the necessary appropriation bills and other compulsory legislation and get away from Washington at the earliest practicable moment.
